

MOBILITY ROADMAP — OUTGOING STUDENT

My Year Abroad:
Anticipating Conflict

CAM — LEADERSHIP M1 S8 · 2025-2026

KEY DETAILS

PROFESSIONAL

- Gain international work experience in engineering
- Navigate an unpaid internship in a foreign company
- Develop autonomy & professional adaptability

PERSONAL GOALS

- Learn Spanish during humanitarian phase
- Prepare for South America exchange
- Build intercultural intelligence
- Contribute meaningfully to a humanitarian mission

CONFLICT ANTICIPATION

- 1 Language barrier & professional expectations in Poland
Why: Unpaid position → risk of feeling undervalued or misunderstood; Polish work culture may differ in directness & hierarchy norms.
Strategy: Proactively clarify expectations in writing from day 1; use direct but diplomatic communication (Thomas-Kilmann: Collaborating style).
- 2 Cultural & linguistic friction during humanitarian work
Why: Arriving without Spanish in a Spanish-speaking community creates power imbalances and potential miscommunication with local teams.
Strategy: Dedicate first weeks to structured language learning; use indirect conflict style (ICS: Accommodation) while building trust, transitioning to Discussion as fluency grows.

SKILLS TO DEVELOP

MY CONFLICT-PREVENTION STRATEGY

Proactive expectation-setting: before entering any new environment (Poland, humanitarian field, Colombia), I will schedule a structured conversation with supervisors/team leads in week 1 to align on norms, roles and feedback methods — preventing ambiguity before it becomes conflict.

ONE TIP FOR FUTURE STUDENTS

"Don't let a small misunderstanding become a big problem. Speak up early, clarify expectations, and stay open-minded!"
